A Special Talk on “Why and What of English Language?”

The Department of English and English Literary Association of Veerashaiva College arranged a special talk for students of B.A. on 08/04/2019. Prof.S.B.Nada Goud, Retired Principal of G.H. College, Haveri, was invited as resource person.

Date : 08/04/2019

A Special Talk on “Why and What of English Language?”

In his address to students, Prof.Nada Goud spoke at length on the need of learning English language in modern days. He drew the attention of the students to various simple ways of learning English at global level. He said that English is no more the property of England but it is the official link language of all the nations of the world. He further mentioned that in the name of learning English, mother tongues need not be neglected; equal importance must be given to both the languages. In order to get jobs in multinational companies, English must be learnt making use of language structures, grammar and vocabulary. He forewarned the students about the influences made by mother tongue structures. He also enlightened the students regarding phonetics of English language.

A Special Talk on "Why and What of English Language?"

The President of the function, Dr.G.Rajashekhar advised the students to make the right use of experienced recommendations and suggestions made by the resource person and experts in order to improve their employability skills. E-webinar national seminar organized under the theme “ Contemporary Prospective in Modern Zoology COVID 19 World

E-webinar national seminar organized under the theme “ Contemporary Prospective in Modern Zoology COVID 19 World “ was inaugurated by hon'ble vice chancellor of VSK University Prof Siddu P Algur on 01.06.2020. While addressing the participants he emphasised about how the pandemic COVID 19 disturbed the entire system of life of the globe. The undesirable harmful happenings on the earth are causing irreparable damage to human world can solely be attributed to anti nature and artificial luxurious way of life preferred by modern man, he pointed out. He suggested that it is a right time for man to prevent further devastation possible to occur by COVID 19 through living in harmony with nature. Before concluding his inaugural speech, he wished for the success of the webinar.

Sri Gonal Rajashekhar Goud, Chairman, Veerashaiva College, Ballari made presidential remarks on this occasion. He said, the COVID 19 which created havoc all over the world posed a sever challenge to medical scientists. Adoption of preventive measures and strict adherence to guidelines can only control the fast increasing rate of positive cases and causalities. The Corona Virus directly affected weaker sections of society whose existence is depended on every day earned wages. He advised to rejuvenate economically productive activities stopped from the first day of lockdown. The mankind may come out from the Jaw of COVID-19 by executing disciplined cautious life. The COVID-19 made infected people to suffer from psychological diseases like , anxiety, depression, mental pressure and ill-health. And others face the problem of socio-economic insecurity apart from fear. The world can attain success in its fight against COVID-19 through organized efforts. Dr Axel Brockmann, German scientist, NCBS, Bangalore, delivered key- note address on the topic “Towards Identifying Molecular Mechanism Underlying Advanced Behavioural Capabilities in Insects”. He pointed that more research needs to be under taken in two major areas such as; i. Molecular Neurobiology of complex behaviour and ii. Comparative biology of honey bees. Human beings cannot identify the functions of honey bees. Honey bee is advantageous for mankind from several points of view, he said.

Prof Ramani Bai, Madras University, Channai, spoke on the topic “Woman’s Prospective in combating COVID-19 in first technical session. She said that women are serving on the front lines against Corona. They are labouring in vivid ways in different capacities to mitigate Corona from the world. However, lockdown situations exacerbated risks of violence, exploitation, harassment of women as noticed in recent crises. She also made recommendations to be considered by all sectors of society, in order to prevent and respond to violence against women and girls during and after the public health crisis. She also covered about the economic impact of the pandemic and its implications for violence against women and girls in the long term. She suggested to rejuvenate economic and educational opportunities particularly for the betterment of women. To avoid the spread of virus it is necessary to maintain social distancing, use of sanitizer frequently, keeping migrants in quarantine for a fixed period. Before concluding her speech she reiterated that policy makers require to respond for women’s unique needs, responsibilities and perspectives. Special attention need to be addressed to reduce exacerbating gender inequalities.

In technical session II, Prof. Muthuchelian, Pro Vice-chancellor, Dayananda Sagar University, Bangalore delivered his lecture on how climate change triggered the COVID-19 virus. Deforestation is increasing rapidly in the name of economic development. It led to the loss of habitat. Air pollution has increased the spread of Corona. He also talked about the role of particulate matter in the spread of pathogenic. He recommended certain measures to prevent community spread.

Students Donating Blood

A person can save the life of three persons by donating his blood. All the healthy men and women can donate their blood regularly with a gap of 3 to 4 months. Researches in medical science have revealed that increasing of iron content in blood causes health problems. Therefore, people can reduce iron substances in their heart, liver and pancreas by blood donation. As a result of it, no organ in human body suffers from any disease. The blood donation reduces stress in human beings. Youths and Adults can donate their valuable blood to minimize the widening gap between demand and supply of blood, he suggested. Sri Girish, Counsellor, delivered a talk on AIDS – Causes and Remedies. Sri Sharankumar and Sri Ashok Omkar, NSS Officers, executed and monitored the programme.

Ms. Nandini K R, Probationary I A S Officer inaugurated the programme by lighting the lamp

Ms. Nandini K R, Probationary I A S Officer inaugurated the programme by lighting the lamp. In her inaugural speech, she spoke about miserable and pitiable conditions of Women in India. All the countries including India consist of 50% of Women in their total population. However, Women are kept away from most of the productive activities in the name of traditional beliefs. This ill practice hindered the growth and development of our economy. She also emphasized about atrocities and violence committed against women in the name of gender system. Gender inequality can be seen from womb to tomb. Problems like fetus killing, female infanticide, immoral traffic of women, sexual abuse of women etc., have continued even in modern civilized societies. Rights of women are given much importance in the present days. Now, women have come out from their houses and started to work in different fields. They have made remarkable achievements on par with men in their working areas. However, exploitation of women still continued in organized and unorganized sectors. Patriarchal values must be removed completely from our society. The modern man should change his attitude towards women. She asked the girl students to put sincere efforts in studies and take active part in all the activities of society. Dr.G.Rajashekhar, Principal, delivered a presidential speech. The exploitation of women would not stop unless we change the social and cultural bonds. Smt.Megha.A.S., Branch Manager, P.K.G.Bank was invited as a Guest of Honour. This programme is organized by the Departments of Sociology and Zoology in association with IQAC. In his speech, he opined that violation of norms has been increasing due to sudden changes in the life style of the people. The detection of certain cases of crime is a very difficult task. It is crucial to prove the crime within the frame work of judicial system before destroying the evidences. Fibers, Soil, Air, Gunshot, Wood, etc., are useful to search evidences. Collection and analysis of medical samples serve the task of producing facts in the court. Many criminal cases remained pending as the laboratories of Forensic Science are not in required number. Therefore, he insisted on the Government to establish more and more laboratories to speed up the disposal process of criminal cases. He has displayed pictures of evidences and different types of forensic tests conducted on diverse cases of crime.
